NELSON'S 2024 POINT-IN-TIME HOMELESSNESS COUNT
REPORT & RECOMMENDATIONS

1954-1985

Canada had a strong welfare housing system wherein the federal government financed average of 20,000 units of social housing annually & housing policy supported affordable housing for various income groups.

#1 Cause of Most Recent Loss of Housing

"Not enough money to pay the rent"

1993-1999

The federal government ends funding for new social housing units, discontinues its cooperative housing program and devolves management of social housing portfolios to provinces and territories.

Production of social housing drops from between 20,000 units per year (around 35% of all new housing units) to below 5,000 units (less than 5% new housing units).

The new millennium brought with it an intensified focus on homeownership, facilitated by Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation-secured mortgages and federal subsidies that drove up demand and opened the door to real estate speculation and housing-based capital accumulation.

2024 Point-in-Time Homelessness Count & Survey

Enumeration: November 6-7

Survey: November 7-30

What is a Point-in-Time (PiT) Count?

A PiT Count is an estimate of the number of people experiencing homelessness within a determined geographical area during a set period of time, typically 24 hours. It also identifies the location where they spent the night: in shelters, transitional housing, or unsheltered locations. A PiT Count may or may not also include a survey that asks a set of standardized survey questions that are administered directly to individuals experiencing homelessness.

Alignment Project: Overview

What: Federal and provincial partners have endorsed a Vision and Goals that confirm a shared commitment to “more integrated local governance and broader coordination of services, as well as improved data management and use of HIFIS data”. To achieve this vision, a path forward has been set for federal, provincial and community partners, who will “work together to align, build upon and improve the existing, local response to homelessness”.

How: The Alignment Project is a five-phase initiative that seeks to integrate and align governance, strategic direction and day-to-day operations related to the homelessness response in BC. Through this Project, roles, responsibilities, use of technology and shared tools will be integrated and aligned across existing and new homelessness programs and processes.

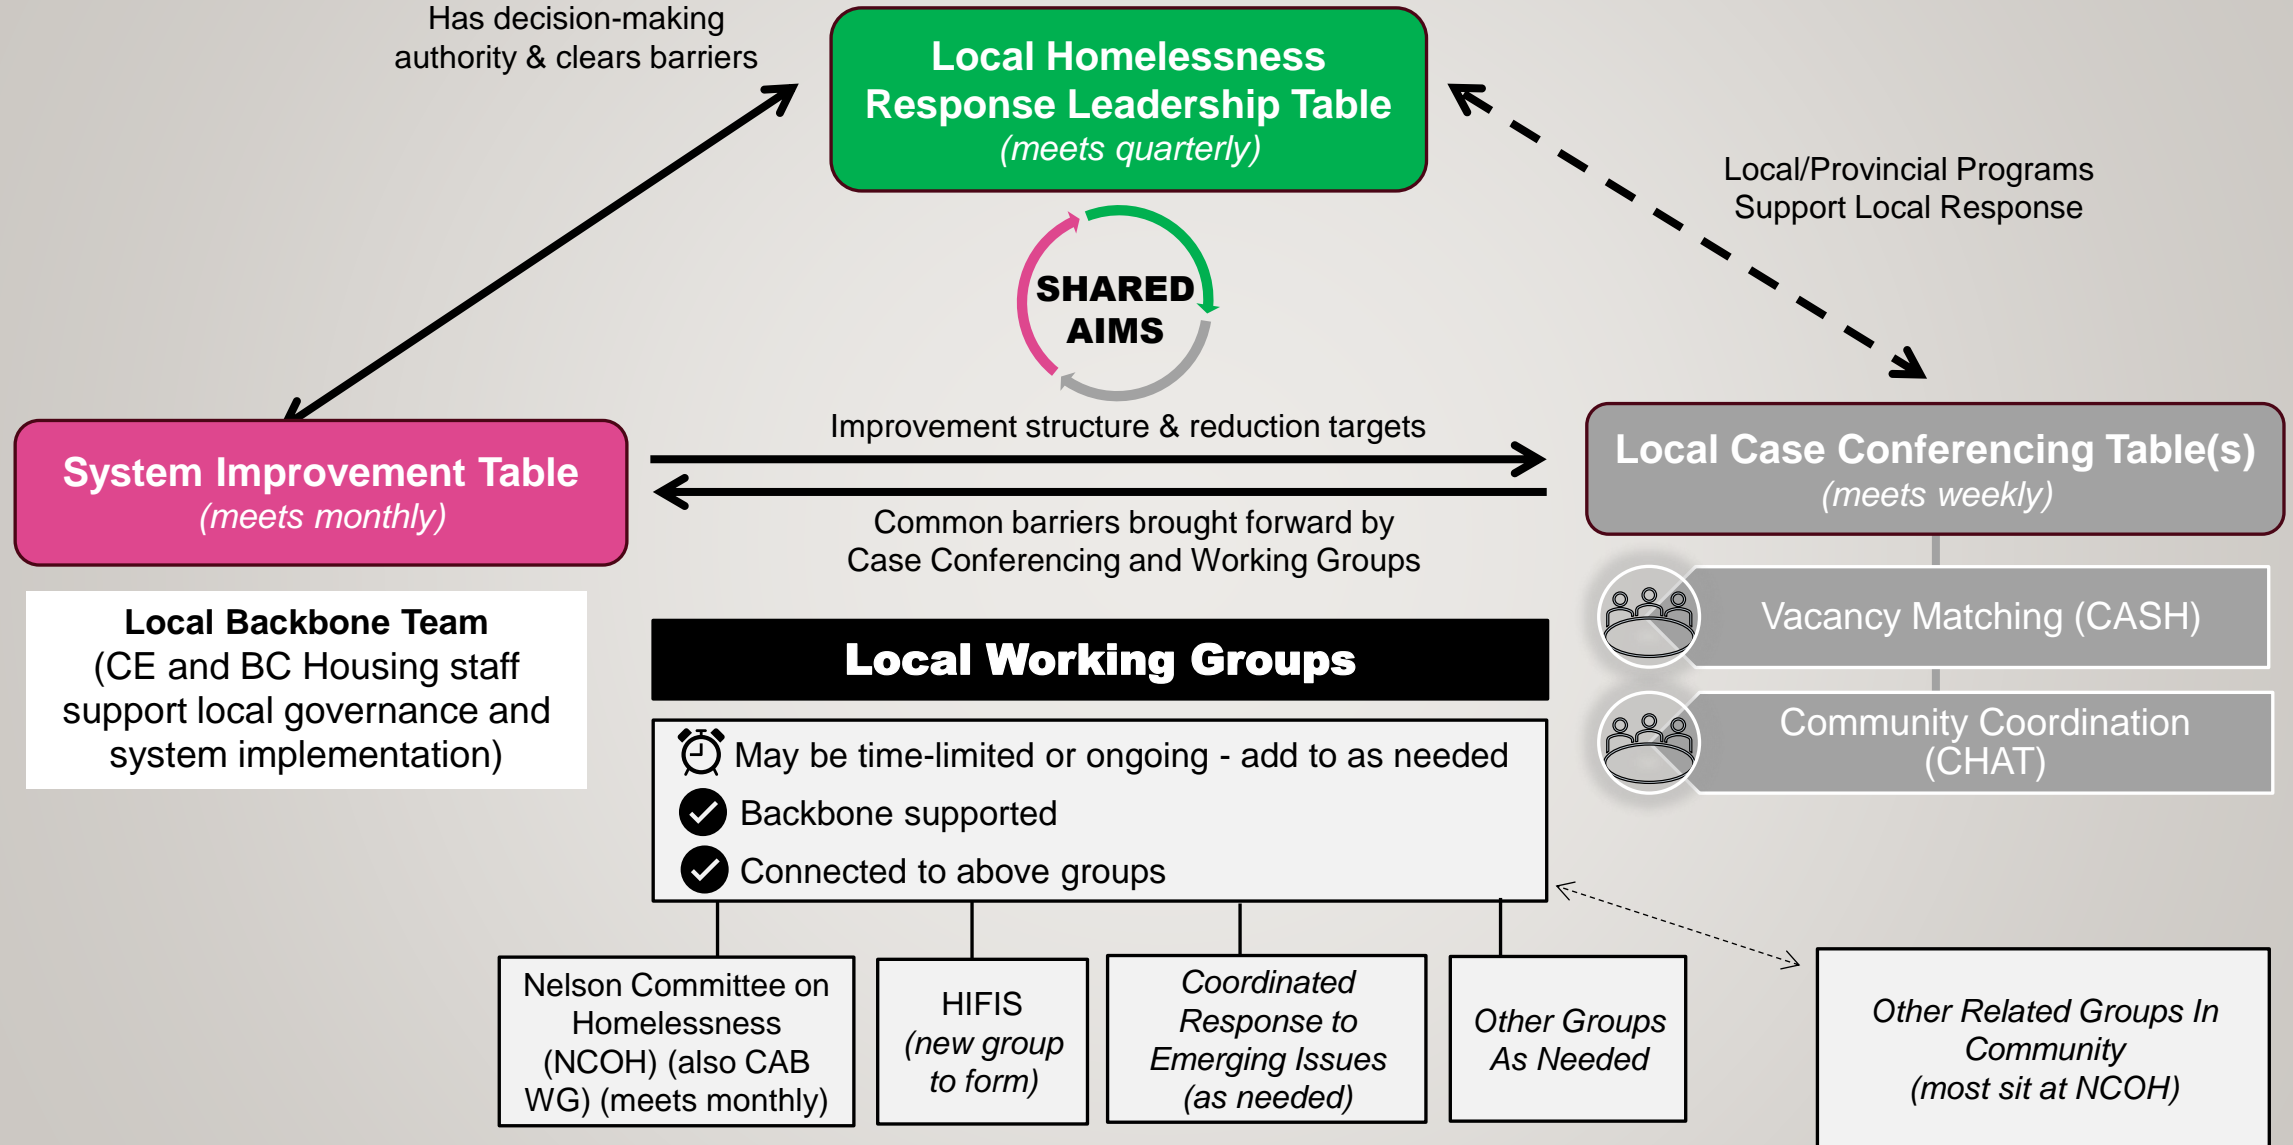

Who: Currently, work is underway to achieve early project deliverables with the following partners:

- The Ministry of Housing: Staff representing Belonging in BC
- BC Housing: Provincial and regional staff representing the Coordinated Access and Assessment program
- Reaching Home Community Entities: Staff representing Abbotsford, Chilliwack, Cowichan Valley, Kamloops, Kelowna, Nanaimo, Nelson, Prince George and Victoria
- Housing, Infrastructure and Communities Canada (HICC): Staff from the Reaching Home program
- CAEH: Staff contracted by the Ministry and HICC to provide coaching support to project partners

HOW WILL WE ACHIEVE ALIGNMENT?

- Phase 1: Preparation for Partnership
- Phase 2: Partnership Launch – June 2024
- Phase 3: Sharing Current State & Exploring Integration Opportunities – Summer/Fall 2024
- Phase 4: Confirming Alignment Roadmap - Jan-March 2025
- Phase 5: Implementation by BC Housing and CEs at Provincial and Community Levels - beginning April 2025 – multi-year

Draft Local Governance Structure

Note: The proposed structure would include Indigenous representation and lived experience voice throughout.
